

HEADS OF BRITISH ARMY STICK TO RESIGNATIONS

Refuse to Alter Decisions Despite King and Cabinet Ministers.

London, March 27.—Field Marshal Sir John French and Adjutant General Sir John Ewart stood firmly to their resignations today in spite of the efforts of the king and the cabinet ministers to induce them to retain their posts as the working heads of the British army.

After a long cabinet meeting Premier Asquith announced to the excited house of commons that neither the chief of the general staff nor the adjutant general would give way. He announced the issue of a new army order intended to prescribe the duties both of the war office and of officers on service in contingencies such as that of Ulster.

The order forbids superiors asking officers and soldiers what they will do in hypothetical contingencies and is designed to prevent resignation of General Sir Arthur Paget's action. It also prohibits officers and soldiers from asking for assurance and security of the duties of the army almost in words of the statement which when announced today, when the king added, because the crisis of the whole country.

The inclusion of soldiers with officers in the terms of the order is the result of the attitude taken by the labor members in the debates and is intended as a compromise. The leader of the opposition declared the new order to be the result of a bluff by the cabinet and by Colonel Balfour.

Prior to his announcement to commons, the premier had said in relation to the two officers:

"The government has conveyed to them its wish that they should not persist in their request, the carrying out of which the government would regard as a serious misfortune to both the army and the state."
